Career Planning

Career planning is an important step for teenagers. It's a process of exploring different _____, understanding your own skills, and making decisions about your future.

The journey starts with self-reflection, where you think about your _____ and what makes you happy. This could involve considering your favorite subjects in _____ or activities you enjoy outside of class.

Next, research various careers that align with your interests. This might mean talking to _____ in different fields, attending career fairs, or doing online research.

Understanding the _____ for different jobs is crucial. For example, some careers might need specific _____ or training.

Setting _____ is another key step. These should be specific, measurable, achievable, relevant, and time-bound (SMART). For instance, if you're interested in becoming a _____, your goals might include excelling in science subjects, volunteering at a hospital, and applying to medical _____.

Networking is also vital. Building relationships with teachers, family friends, or professionals can open doors to opportunities like internships or _____ programs. Remember, it's not only about what you know, but who you know.

It's important to stay _____ in your career planning. Interests and goals may change, and that's okay. The world of work is always evolving, and new _____ emerge as technology and society change. Be open to exploring different paths and learning new _____.

Lastly, don't forget the importance of work-life balance. While career success is important, so is your mental and physical _____. Find a career that allows you to enjoy your personal life and hobbies.

Career planning isn't a one-time event but a continuous process. As you grow and learn more about yourself, your career path might shift. Embrace the journey and remember, your career is a big part of your life, but it's not the only part.
