

name: _____

class: _____

date: _____

Casting art

The process of _____ art is both ancient and fascinating. It involves creating a _____ from a sculpture or model, which is then filled with molten _____ to form a replica. The original model can be made from various materials, such as _____, wax, or _____. After the mold is prepared, it's carefully filled with the molten metal, typically _____ or aluminum. Once the metal cools and solidifies, the mold is removed, revealing the new _____. This technique is popular for creating large-scale _____ and intricate artworks. The _____ process includes polishing and sometimes adding patinas to enhance the sculpture's appearance. Art casting allows for the creation of multiple copies of a single _____, making it a valuable technique for artists. Famous _____ around the world, like the Statue of _____, were made using casting techniques. This method is not only limited to metal; it can also be used with materials like _____ and plastic. Art casting continues to be an important method in the art world, combining traditional techniques with modern _____.

design plaster glass bronze statues metal monuments casting sculpture Liberty finishing innovations clay mold