

name: _____

class: _____

date: _____

Catholicism and the Gunpowder Plot

The _____ Plot was a plan to blow up the English Parliament in 1605. It was organized by a group of _____ who were unhappy with the Protestant government. They wanted to kill King James I and replace him with a Catholic _____ . The leader of the plot was Robert Catesby, who gathered a small group of _____. They rented a house next to the Parliament and began to store _____ in the cellar.

One of the most famous members of the group was Guy _____. He was in charge of lighting the fuse to the gunpowder. The plot was discovered when one of the conspirators sent a letter to a Catholic _____, warning him to stay away from Parliament on the day of the attack. The letter was shown to the _____, and the cellars were searched. Guy Fawkes was found guarding the gunpowder and was _____. He was tortured and eventually revealed the names of the other _____.

The conspirators were captured and executed. The _____ of the Gunpowder Plot had serious consequences for Catholics in England. They faced even harsher _____ and stricter laws. Every year on November 5th, people in the UK remember the plot by celebrating _____ Night. They light bonfires and set off fireworks, and some even burn effigies of Guy Fawkes. This _____ has become a part of British culture and a reminder of the dangers of religious _____.

- | | | | | | | | |
|----------|-----------|--------------|-----------|-------------|-----------|-------------|-------|
| Bonfire | monarch | conspirators | Catholics | arrested | failure | persecution | event |
| plotters | Gunpowder | gunpowder | Fawkes | authorities | extremism | nobleman | |