

name: _____

class: _____

date: _____

Claude Monet's Artistic Journey

In the world of art, _____ is a renowned name. He was born in _____ in 1840 and grew up in _____. Monet showed an early talent for _____, but his initial focus was caricatures. His life changed when he met _____, who introduced him to outdoor _____. This experience marked the beginning of Monet's love for _____.

Monet moved to _____ in 1859 to pursue his art career. There, he encountered various artists and was influenced by the works of _____. In 1872, Monet created "Impression, _____", a painting that led to the birth of the _____ movement. This movement was characterized by a focus on light, color, and everyday _____.

Monet's technique involved painting the same scene at different times of the day to capture the changing _____. One of his most famous series is of the _____ at Rouen. Here, he explored how light and shadow affected the appearance of the structure. Monet also had a great love for _____, which was evident in his series of water lily paintings from his home in _____.

Despite facing financial difficulties and public _____, Monet continued to innovate and inspire. His works gradually gained recognition, and today, they are celebrated for their beauty and _____ on art. Monet's dedication to capturing the essence of a moment through color and light has left a lasting legacy in the _____ world.

Manet	Le Havre	cathedral	art	impact	Giverny	light	Sunrise
Impressionist	Claude Monet	painting	landscapes	criticism	drawing
Eugene Boudin	Paris	Paris	subjects	gardens			