

name: _____

class: _____

date: _____

Dunfermline Abbey in History

Dunfermline Abbey is a _____ of great historical importance in Scotland. It was _____ in the 11th century by King Malcolm III. This abbey became a key _____ for religious and cultural activities during medieval times. The architecture of the abbey is a stunning example of _____ and Gothic styles. Many Scottish _____ were buried here, including Robert the Bruce. The _____ of Dunfermline Abbey was renowned for its extensive collection of manuscripts. Monks at the abbey were responsible for _____ important texts. The abbey also served as a place of _____ for young nobles. During the Scottish Reformation, the abbey underwent significant _____. Despite these changes, the abbey continued to be an important _____ of Scottish heritage. Dunfermline Abbey's _____ were famous for their beauty and variety of plants. The abbey's influence extended beyond religion, impacting _____, literature, and politics in medieval Scotland.

symbol

transcribing

kings

education

changes

Romanesque

monument

art

center

founded

library

gardens