

name: _____

class: _____

date: _____

Essence of Romanticism

In the late 18th century, a _____ called Romanticism emerged in English literature. It was a reaction against the _____ Revolution and the strict rules of classical art. Romantic writers focused on _____, nature, and individualism. They believed that these elements were more important than logic or _____. One of the key figures was _____ Wordsworth, who wrote about the beauty of the natural world. His poems often described the _____ District, a region he loved deeply. Another important writer was _____ Shelley, who wrote the novel "Frankenstein." This book combined elements of _____ horror with Romantic ideals. Percy Bysshe _____, Mary's husband, was also a famous Romantic poet. He wrote about _____ and the power of imagination. Lord _____ was another well-known Romantic poet. He was famous for his adventurous life and passionate _____. Jane _____ was not a Romantic writer, but she lived during the same period. Her novels focused more on social _____ and relationships. The Romantic period was a time of great _____ in English literature, emphasizing feelings, nature, and the human _____.

Mary	change	realism	Shelley	reason	emotion	William	Industrial spirit	Austen	poetry	Gothic	revolution	movement	Byron	Lake