

name: _____

class: _____

date: _____

Exploring Carib Culture

The Carib people were among the _____ populations of the Caribbean. Known for their skills in _____, they traveled across the sea in canoes made from trees. The Caribs were also _____ and fishermen, utilizing the abundant resources of their island homes. Their diet was rich in _____, which they expertly caught using techniques passed down through generations. In addition to hunting, they practiced _____, growing crops like cassava and sweet potatoes. The Caribs had a unique _____ structure, which was evident in their living arrangements and ceremonies. They lived in _____ led by a chief, known as a cacique. Their society was _____, meaning lineage was traced through the mother. The Carib people were also _____, often defending their territories against other groups. They made weapons from _____ and stone, showing great craftsmanship. Their art and crafts, such as pottery and _____, were both functional and decorative. Despite their significant impact, the arrival of _____ in the late 15th century marked the beginning of drastic changes for the Carib culture and other indigenous _____ of the Caribbean.

wood

hunters

peoples

navigation

villages

indigenous

seafood

matrilineal

Europeans

agriculture

warriors

basketry

social