

name: _____

class: _____

date: _____

Industrial Revolution Impact

During the Industrial Revolution, the _____ underwent massive changes. In cities, factories began to dominate the _____, replacing the rural farms that once fed the population. People moved from the countryside to _____ in search of work, leading to urbanization. This period saw the invention of the _____ engine, which played a crucial role in transforming manufacturing and transportation. For the first time, goods could be produced on a _____ scale, making products more accessible to the general public.

However, this era also brought about significant social and _____ challenges. Workers faced long hours in unsafe conditions for minimal _____. The air and water became polluted, affecting the health of the _____. Despite these challenges, the Industrial Revolution paved the way for modern _____, influencing how and where we work.

Culture was also profoundly impacted. Literature, _____, and music began to reflect the realities of the new industrial _____, often criticizing the harsh conditions and celebrating human resilience. Education became more _____, as literacy and technical skills opened up new opportunities for individuals.

The Industrial Revolution was a time of great innovation and _____, but also of hardship and change. It marked the beginning of the modern era, shaping the _____ in countless ways.

growth world large world pay important environmental cities steam landscape economies art population society