

name: _____

class: _____

date: _____

Life of a Medieval Monk

In medieval England, a _____ dedicated his life to spiritual practices. He usually lived in a _____, a place far from the bustling cities. Each day, the monk followed a strict _____, beginning with prayers at dawn. Breakfast was simple, often just bread and _____. After eating, he would spend hours in _____, seeking a deeper connection with God. The monastery's _____ was a place of learning, where the monk studied religious texts. Physical labor, like tending the _____ or copying _____, was also a significant part of his day. The monk wore a plain _____, symbolizing his commitment to a life of simplicity. Silence was highly valued, and speaking was limited to necessary _____. The monastery provided shelter to _____, reflecting the monk's duty of hospitality. Evening prayers marked the end of the day, followed by a modest _____. The monk's life was a cycle of prayer, work, and study, aimed at spiritual _____ and community service.

schedule

communication

garden

growth

monastery

dinner

library

water

robe

travelers

manuscripts

monk

prayer