

name: _____

class: _____

date: _____

Medieval Music Magic

During the _____, music was an important part of life. In castles and courts, musicians used various _____ to entertain. One of the most popular was the _____, resembling a modern guitar. Minstrels played the lute to accompany _____ and dancers. Another fascinating instrument was the _____, which produced sound by turning a crank. The _____, made from wood, was beloved for its sweet melody. In grand halls, the _____ was played, its strings echoing beautifully. The _____ provided rhythm, essential for lively dances. Church music often featured the _____, a large and complex instrument. The _____, an early form of violin, was common among traveling musicians. These instruments contributed to the rich tapestry of _____ music, reflecting a diverse and vibrant culture.

instruments

medieval

flute

vielle

hurdy-gurdy

organ

harp

Middle Ages

drum

lute

singers