

name: _____

class: _____

date: _____

Mysteries of the Book of Durrow

The _____ is a medieval manuscript created in Ireland. It's believed to have been made around the year 650-700 AD. This makes it one of the _____ examples of Insular art. The book is famous for its _____ designs and intricate artwork. It contains the four _____ of the New Testament. Interestingly, it combines Christian symbolism with traditional _____ designs. This blend showcases the cultural _____ in Ireland during that time. The book's cover is made of leather, but the original one has been _____. Its pages are made of _____, a type of fine calf skin. The _____ used in the illustrations are vibrant, despite their age. These colors were made from various natural _____, like plants and minerals. The artists used techniques that were advanced for their _____. Each Gospel in the Book of Durrow starts with an ornate _____. These initials are elaborately decorated with animal and _____ patterns. The book is not just a religious _____, but also a work of art. It reflects the skill and creativity of _____ Irish monks. The Book of Durrow is now kept at _____ College Library in Dublin. It's a symbol of Irish _____ and an important piece of art history. Visiting the book is like traveling back in time to medieval _____.

heritage ornate Ireland vellum Trinity text Celtic lost Gospels era earliest geometric colors substances transition medieval initial Book of Durrow