

name: _____

class: _____

date: _____

New France in Early Canadian History

In the 16th and 17th centuries, European _____ set sail across the Atlantic Ocean in search of new lands and resources. Among these explorers, the French played a significant role in the _____ and colonization of what is now known as Canada. The area they colonized was called New France, which at its _____, stretched from Newfoundland to the Rocky Mountains and from Hudson Bay to the Gulf of Mexico. The first _____ in New France was established at Quebec City by Samuel de _____ in 1608. Champlain is often called the "Father of New France" for his efforts in founding the colony and forging _____ with the local Indigenous peoples, notably the Huron. These alliances were crucial for the survival and _____ of the settlers in the harsh conditions of North America.

The economy of New France was primarily based on the _____ trade, with beaver pelts being the most valuable commodity. This trade led to the _____ of a vast network of trading posts and encouraged further _____ of the continent. However, life in New France was not easy. The settlers faced many challenges, including harsh _____, difficult terrain, and the threat of conflict with both Indigenous peoples and the British, who were also establishing _____ in North America. Despite these challenges, New France played a crucial role in shaping early Canadian _____. The cultural and linguistic heritage of the French in Canada, particularly in Quebec, is a direct legacy of New _____. This period also set the stage for the future development of Canada as a nation, with the interactions between European _____ and Indigenous peoples laying the groundwork for the complex cultural mosaic that Canada is known for today.

The _____ of New France came in 1760, when it was conquered by the British following their victory in the Battle of the Plains of _____. This marked the beginning of a new chapter in Canadian history, with New France becoming part of the British Empire.

- discovery
- end
- colonies
- peak
- establishment
- Abraham
- expansion
- alliances
- settlement
- exploration
- fur
- Champlain
- France
- weather
- explorers
- settlers
- history