

name: _____

class: _____

date: _____

Pablo Picasso - A Revolutionary Artist

Pablo Picasso, born in _____ in 1881, was a revolutionary artist. From a young age, he showed exceptional talent in _____. Picasso's father, also an _____, recognized his son's potential and encouraged his artistic development. Picasso's early works were realistic, but he soon began experimenting with different _____.

One of his most famous periods is the _____ Period, characterized by monochromatic blue paintings. This period reflected his feelings of _____ after a friend's death. Later, Picasso entered the _____ Period, using warmer colors and featuring circus _____.

Picasso co-founded the _____ movement, which broke traditional rules of perspective. This style depicted subjects from multiple _____, creating fragmented, abstract forms. His painting "Les Femmes d'Alger" is considered a groundbreaking work in _____.

In addition to painting, Picasso was skilled in _____, ceramics, and printmaking. He was highly _____, creating tens of thousands of works during his lifetime. Picasso's influence extends beyond art; he impacted _____ and politics too. His painting "Guernica," depicting the horrors of war, is a powerful political _____.

Picasso continued to innovate and create until his death in 1973. His legacy lives on, inspiring countless artists and making him a central figure in 20th-century _____.

styles artist sculpture art Cubism Blue Rose angles Cubist statement culture productive sadness performers Spain drawing