

name: class: date:

Spanish

Spanish, often referred to as _____, is a rich and diverse language spoken by over _____ million people as a first language. This makes it one of the most spoken languages in the _____, second only to Mandarin Chinese. Spanish originated on the _____ Peninsula, the home of modern-day Spain. However, the majority of Spanish speakers are found in _____ America, due to the region's colonization by Spain. Spanish is characterized by its _____ tones, deriving from its Latin roots. It's not just spoken in Spain and Latin America; Spanish is also an official language in _____ Guinea in Africa, and is widely spoken in the United States, especially in states like _____ and Texas. The United Nations recognizes Spanish as one of its six official _____, highlighting its global importance. Due to the influence of Spanish culture and media, the language is increasingly popular as a _____ language, with millions learning it worldwide. In education, Spanish is often taught as a foreign language, especially in the _____ States and Europe, reflecting its practicality and global relevance. Interestingly, Spanish has many dialects, with variations in _____, pronunciation, and grammar across different regions. This diversity enriches the language, making it a fascinating subject of study for linguists and language _____ alike.

vocabulary United languages enthusiasts Latin California Equatorial Iberian romantic world Español 480 second