

name: _____

class: _____

date: _____

Thomas Wintour and the Gunpowder Plot

Thomas Wintour was a key _____ in the Gunpowder Plot. This was a plan to blow up the English Parliament in 1605. The _____ wanted to kill King James I. They also wanted to end the persecution of _____ in England. Thomas's role was to help gather support and recruit other _____.

Wintour was well-educated and spoke several languages. He traveled to _____ to seek help from the Spanish King. However, he did not get the _____ he hoped for. Despite this setback, Thomas remained committed to the plot. He returned to _____ and joined the other plotters in London.

The conspirators rented a _____ near the Parliament building. They started digging a tunnel to place the _____ under the building. Thomas was involved in every step of the _____. However, the plot was discovered when a letter was sent to Lord Monteaule. This _____ warned him not to attend Parliament on the planned day.

The plotters were soon arrested. Thomas _____ tried to escape but was captured. He was tortured to reveal more information about the _____. Eventually, he was executed for his role in the Gunpowder Plot.

Thomas Wintour's _____ was crucial in organizing and maintaining the plan, despite its ultimate _____.

plan plotters gunpowder Spain support England involvement Catholics letter plot failure conspirators house Wintour figure