

name: _____

class: _____

date: _____

Tropical Paradise of Palau

Palau, a small _____ nation in the Pacific Ocean, is known for its clear blue waters and rich marine life. The _____, Ngerulmud, is located on the island of Babeldaob, which is the largest in the country. Palau's _____ is around 18,000 people, making it one of the least populated countries in the _____. One of the most famous sites in Palau is Jellyfish Lake, where visitors can swim with millions of harmless _____. The lake is isolated; its jellyfish have evolved without natural predators, leading to their unique harmlessness.

Palau is also famous for its Rock _____, a group of limestone or coral uprisers that have been shaped by _____ into mushroom-like formations. These islands are uninhabited and covered in dense _____.

Diving in Palau offers the chance to explore shipwrecks from World War II, as the _____ were a battleground during the conflict. The warm waters are home to an incredible variety of _____ and coral species, making it a paradise for divers.

The _____ of Palau is proactive in environmental conservation, creating the world's first _____ sanctuary in 2009. This sanctuary covers all of Palau's Exclusive Economic _____, protecting over 130 species of sharks and rays.

Palau's economy is largely based on _____, agriculture, and fishing. Despite its small size, the island nation has managed to become a significant _____ for eco-tourists and adventure seekers from around the _____.

- vegetation
- islands
- erosion
- world
- jellyfish
- globe
- capital
- island
- tourism
- Zone
- fish
- government
- Islands
- population
- destination
- shark