Water Lilies in Art History

Water Lilies are a famous _____ of paintings by Claude Monet. These _____ depict his flower garden at Giverny. Monet's garden had a large _____ filled with water lilies. He was inspired by the beauty of _____ and the play of light on the pond's surface. The Water Lilies series includes approximately 250 _____ paintings. Monet focused on the reflections in the _____ rather than the flowers themselves. This approach was revolutionary in the _____ world. He used blurred lines and a mix of colors to capture the _____ of the water lilies. The paintings vary in size, some being quite _____. They were painted over the last 30 years of Monet's _____. These paintings are seen as precursors to the _____ art movement. The Water Lilies series is a great example of _____. They are displayed in various museums around the _____.
